

Continuous Improvement – Action Projects

An Action Project centers on areas identified as opportunities for improvement which, when improved, will positively impact our students and others. The following action projects will promote learning, respond to problems and drive our work and focus for the next two to three years. Action Projects are also a central component of our continuous improvement process; the NCA requires that one action project focus on learning. The college reports to AQIP annually on the progress of projects. At the end of the two or three years the cycle begins again and we look for additional action projects to continuously improve learning and our college.

1. Develop, create, deploy, and assess a system to support online learners.
2. Develop a roadmap for students from first contact to graduation.
3. Use technology to improve student retention, learning, and assessment.
